LOUISVILLE JOURNAL AN ABOLITIONIST SHIPPED NORTH. - The Memphis Avalanche of Tuesday says: Memphis Avalanche of Tuesday says:

Expenses of Foreign Governments,—The Baltimore American says the common impression that the British Government is administered on a scale of greater costliness than most of its Continental nelghbors is shown to be erroneaus by statistical reports of the expenses of the principal European nations. The population of France is larger than that of Great Britain, and she has scarcely any colonies except Algeria, ne ertheless, without colonies to protect, she has a navy almost as large and expensive as that of England. Her civil administration employs 598,000 persons, at a cost of £12,000,000. Her standing army consists of $50,000 men. The actual expenditure per head in France for purposes of government is thirty-one English shillings.

Austria like France, has lew colonies and compared to the good people of Batesville man named John Weils, who made it his business to procure whisky and get drunk along with negroes. The great mass of the impulse which Richelien gave to the policy of France in 1621, sprang from the clear mass with which this mester statesman, Cardinal though he was, saw and acted upon the practical importance of Rome. Houry IV, turned from Venice, his natural alty, hetself grown might in spite of Fapal intrigues, and by spurning Papal assumptions, to join with the Bolty See in annihilating the independence of Central Huly. He was rewarded with the dagger of Ravaillac, and France with the miserable Regency of the papalistic and ununderous Marie de Medicis. Richelien saw the Popes for what they were, a succession of weak, vacilating, selfish princes, playing the most colossal game of spiritual charlatunism in order to secure the most contemptible of temporal advantages, and as he saw ho struck. He saw Paul IV, intrigueing with the Sultan against Italian cines, Clement VIII, clutching at Forrara, Erban VIII, despoiting the Ducal House of Urbino, and he resulted put forth his hand against the Roman puppet to pull down with it the Spaniard and Emperor, whose supple instroument it had become.
